The dating from the seventeenth century farmhouse is part of a different buildings collection with the aim of being as the most representative. This project required the creation of a modern farmhouse barn for the young generation. Our intervention also sought to improve the access to the barn and its access.

In this home in the farm barn, our goal was to keep all those elements and spaces that were part of the construction of the old house. In addition, the barn was used as a living room and a dining room. We started demolishing all the existing
